Rotary News

President-elect Richard Kemball-Cook attended the Rotary International Conference at Birmingham NEC in June, and enjoyed the experience very much.

‘How can I describe such an amazing few days: we gained a view of the impact that Rotary is making on the world. We met so many people, saw the work of clubs, districts and whole countries, young people but also of individuals. There were long lines of Japanese, threading their way through throngs of Nigerians in their billowing robes, meeting Koreans and Hong Kong and Macau Chinese.

There was ample evidence of the impact that Rotary is making on the world: polio cases down from 1590 last year to 620 this year, the Rotary club of Sri Lanka showing off the 160 new schools that they built with the £18M they received from Rotary clubs worldwide, £1.2 M coming from the UK. They came to say thanks and show off their schools.

The main themes that the 1.2 M Rotarians worldwide are working on are: Clean water, sanitation and soap; Polio Plus and improve the plight of Women by lowering infant mortality rates, making sure they have education, making sure freshwater is available nearby. Much research has been done into why communities remain in poverty: the answer always is - improve the lot of women and the whole community benefits.

Indeed some of you met my two guests from Calcutta - they came to tell the Conference about how the use of micro-credit schemes is transforming very poor villages in North India by giving credit to groups of women who can then make things, trade and feed their children properly.

We also listened to Mia Farrow, firstly recalling her teens when she was the wife of Frank Sinatra for two years and then she talked of the genocide in Darfur, Sudan where 2.5 million people are now homeless: the president was found guilty of war crimes and he merely chucked out all the aid agencies, making a bad situation much worse. With this knowledge comes responsibility to do something about it, and she was asking us.

There is much more to tell and I wished more had come from the Club: what about Montreal next year?’

Canterbury Millennium Trust Fund

Fund Administrator Leslie Stephenson has received a letter of thanks from Michael Magro, a former pupil of Barton Court Grammar School, who was awarded £200 from the Millennium Scholarship Trust Fund to help him extend his medical studies with a period in a hospital in Durban. Leslie adds that he hopes we will agree that it was “money well spent”.

Michael wrote: ‘This was an amazing experience and I have learnt an enormous amount. The hospital was government run and catered for the poorest residents of Durban and the surrounding areas, the majority of whom did not have to pay for their care. Unfortunately there is a huge HIV/AIDS problem in South Africa and this was obviously multiplied in the patients that attended hospital, 95% of whom were HIV positive. ...During surgery I spent a lot of time in the trauma and casualty departments where I witnessed multiple gun and stab wound victims. I therefore gained lots of hands-on experience in the management of the acutely ill patient which I will be able to bring back to the UK and use to benefit patients I treat when I start work in August. Thank you all once again for your generous grant.’
